Take a T-shirt that is already suitable for your child, and put it on top, lined with top stitches t-shirt. If the shirt you use as a pattern unfolds at the bottom, adjust it so that it goes straight down. Now cut straight through, about 1/2 inch down from the bottom of the model t-shirt. This piece will be your skirt. If you want, you can take it shorter, but leave the finished edge at the bottom. Cut out the remaining shirt, leaving about 1/2 of the seam allowance. Is your wedding ceremony or reception going to include cultural traditions and customs? If so, you may want to choose a dress that represents your heritage, such as a bright red sar or silk kimono. If you want to combine the elements of your culture with western traditions, look for a dress that will be coordinated with special accents, such as a heir's scarf or a meaningful henna tattoo. Are your religious beliefs on the more conservative side? Modesty does not mean that you have to sacrifice style! Buy bathrobes with lace cap sleeves and fabulous glossy bib necklines. Of course, be sure to consider the season when choosing your own gown. If you get outdoors during the summer months, buy dresses made of light, spacious fabrics with a minimum bead and layers, so that you will not feel hot and sticky. For colder months, heavier fabrics such as satin and taffeta are more suitable, while warm, stylish wraps such as mink, stole or cashmere cardigan can be an elegant addition to your ensemble. Finally, make sure that your dress is suitable for the place. If you have an outdoor affair on the beach or botanical garden, choose a simple, windy wedding dress. Will your wedding be a black tie event? Make sure your dress is just as formal and reflects the evening Go to Monique Lhuillier dress with silk organza ruffle skirt, and bring drama! Drama! Drama!
